- 20% independent 4000 word fieldwork based project
- High levels of scientific understanding and geo-political understanding across the themes
- Two two and half hour papers to be sat.
- PHYSICAL THEMES
- Water and carbon cycles
- Coasts
- Natural hazards
- HUMAN THEMES
- Urban environments
- Changing Places
- Global governance.

Complementary Subjects

Geography is a subject that fits well with Science, Mathematics, Economics, History, Business Studies and English.

It is a multi-discipline subject very suitable for any student without a definite career in mind at this stage.

Future Opportunities

University - students can go on to do a variety of Geographical degree subjects, many allowing a specialism in either physical or human geography. It is a valued subject for many other degree courses because of its multi-topic and multi-skill approach to learning.

Employment - with its emphasis on global developments and problem solving, A level Geography is valued by all major firms especially in finance, insurance and retailing.
